Judge Ammer Says 'No'

Attorneys Seek Saturday Closing Of Courthouse

To close or not to close, that is the question!

Pickaway County Bar Assn. has passed a resolution seeking the closing of the courthouse on Saturdays. In the same resolution, local attorneys are asking that the courthouse be open on Wednesday afternoon and that "elected officials adjust office hours during the week to meet the public's convenience."

Common Pleas Judge William Ammer today voiced violent opposition to the bar's proposal. Judge Ammer said he made his position quite clear to members of the bar during the special session held recently to adopt the resolution.

Judge Ammer said that Circleville is "a Saturday town" and that many working people cannot take care of their business at the courthouse during a Monday through Friday schedule.

HE ALSO noted that an informal discussion at a meeting of the Pickaway County Elected Officials tended to agree with his views.

Probate-Juvenile Judge Guy Cline said that he understood the bar's desire to have "Saturday's off and he was quite willing to cooperate." At the same time, Judge Cline said, "I would not be adverse to remaining open on Saturdays... I will comply with what the people want."

The probate judge said that effective Dec. 1, he would not schedule hearings on Saturdays unless specifically requested by an attorney.

Judge Cline also noted that his office crew works on Wednesday afternoons anyway due to the large volume of work in the office. He added that if elected officials should decide to close on Saturdays, his staff would probably work anyway.

In the past, many Pickaway Countyans have been adverse to the Wednesday afternoon closing of the courthouse. At a recent meeting of a Chamber of Commerce committee, it was pointed out that local businesses felt the effects of the Wednesday afternoon courthouse closing.

Judge Ammer summed up the situation by stating that the courthouse is a public building, constructed and maintained with taxpayers' money to serve the people... and you can't fulfill the taxpayers' needs by closing the courthouse doors.

Call For Halting Open-Air Tests Of War Gasses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Accusing the Army of "lack of candor, deception and disregard of the public interest," a House committee called today for an immediate halt to large-scale open-air tests of war gases.

The panel said the public should know when future open-air tests—already restricted under provisions of an act adopted by Congress last week—are made.

Charging a "web of secrecy" envelopes Army chemical and biological warfare—CBW—operations, the House Government Operations Committee said in a report "there is no adequate justification for such secrecy and deception."

The report came shortly after Rep. Richard McCarthy, D-N.Y., asserted tear gas—described as a nonlethal battle aid by the military—is being used as a weapon of death in Vietnam.

McCarthy urged President Nixon to resubmit the 1925 Geneva Protocol on CBW to the Senate, including tear gas in the ban on use of all such agents in war. The United States has never ratified the agreement.

The representative spoke to students at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore Wednesday night.

5 Juveniles Arrested For Armed Holdup

CINCINNATI (AP) — Five juveniles, ranging in age from 9 to 13, were in the hands of juvenile officials today after they robbed an upper West End delicatessen of $57 at gunpoint Wednesday ordering clerk Dorothy Warman, 47, to hand over the cash "or I'll blow your head off."

Police said the boys were arrested minutes later. The gun had been stolen from a parked car.

Family Still Won't Accept Body Of GI

Claim Soldier Not Their Son Despite X-Rays

SGT. JOHN A. WARREN

RICHWOOD, Ohio (AP) — A comparison of x-rays Wednesday seemed to support the Army's contention that a body shipped here from Vietnam was that of Sgt. John A. Warren.

But Mr. and Mrs. Roy Warren and daughter-in-law Sharon Warren still insist that it is not their son and husband, and will not accept the body for burial here.

Doctors who compared spinal x-rays taken of the body Wednesday with one taken of Warren five years ago said there were "extreme similarities" between them. Warren had a spinal abnormality.

"However, the family is not going to accept the body until they get a better explanation about what happened to change his physical appearance," said State Rep. Lloyd G. Kerns, acting as a family spokesman.

In the meantime, Kerns said, the body will be shipped to Dover, Del., for storage in an Army installation.

The family was notified Nov. 2 that Warren had been killed by a sniper's bullet Oct. 30.

But they said the corpse they received for burial was about 45 pounds heavier than Warren, was two inches taller and had different colored hair. In addition, they said their son had a scar on his arm and the body did not.

Army authorities said fingerprints taken from the body

Thanksgiving Proclamation Is Issued

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite problems facing the nation today "we are, indeed, a most fortunate people," President Nixon says in his Thanksgiving Day proclamation.

"Giving thanks today, we express gratitude for past bounty and we also confidently face the challenges confronting our own nation and the world because we know we can rely on a strength greater than ourselves."

"This year, let us especially seek to rekindle in our respective hearts and minds the spirit of our first settlers who valued freedom above all else, and who found much for which to be thankful when material comforts were meager."

President Abraham Lincoln asked Americans on Oct. 3, 1863 to set apart and observe the last Thursday of November as a day of Thanksgiving, Nixon noted, adding:

"To many, this call for a national call for a day of Thanksgiving must have seemed strange, coming as it did at a time of war and bitterness."

"Yet Lincoln knew that the act of Thanksgiving should not be limited to times of peace and serenity. He knew that it is precisely at those times of hardship when men most need to recognize that the Source of all good constantly bestows His blessings on mankind."

North Viets Launch Fierce Attacks Close To Border

Prospects Bright For Apollo Launch

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A leaking tank that threatened to postpone the scheduled Apollo 12 to the moon was replaced with one from another spacecraft today and prospects brightened for an on-time liftoff Friday.

"We look real good now," Paul C. Donnelly, launch operations manager, said after early-morning tests showed the new tank was in good condition.

"At this time the changeout of the tank appears to have been successful," the space center said in a status report.

While the change of tanks was under way, the countdown proceeded toward the scheduled 11:22 a.m. launching Friday for astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Richard F. Gordon Jr., and Alan L. Bean.

To keep the launch from being postponed, crews had to remove the leaking tank from deep in the spaceship's innards, replace it with one taken from Apollo 13, test it and reload it.

Apollo 13 was in a hangar, being readied for launch next March.

The tank, part of the fuel cell system that produces the ship's electricity, is built like a thermos—with a vacuum acting as insulation between outer and inner walls. The leak was in the outer wall.

The tank itself holds 28 pounds of hydrogen, kept in a liquid state by cooling to 423 degrees below zero. There are two such tanks for hydrogen and two for oxygen in a service compartment behind the main cabin.

"We're comfortable because we know our problem," Donnelly said. "The problem is the tank. We have to get it out of there and get a new tank in."

The space center had experts flown in from the manufacturer's plant in Downey, Calif., to help with the transplant.

The second hydrogen fuel tank on board would have been enough for the mission, Donnelly said, "but we've always lifted off with two tanks in the event we had this type of problem in flight."

While Gordon and Bean remained in crew quarters Wednesday for more study of

26 Americans, 108 Of Enemy Reported Dead

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops launched their biggest single ground assault along the demilitarized zone in more than a year and had 108 men killed by superior American firepower, military spokesmen reported today.

Twenty-six Americans were killed, 70 wounded and two helicopters shot down in 17 hours of close combat that lasted from Wednesday afternoon until dawn today. The battle took place six miles southwest of the allied outpost at Con Thien and 3 1/2 miles below the demilitarized zone.

One American company—reportedly outnumbered as much as 3 to 1 when an estimated 500 North Vietnamese soldiers attacked their night bivouac in the predawn hours today—suffered 17 men killed. The company beat off the attack with the help of tanks, armored personnel carriers, artillery and helicopter gunships.

More than 100 miles to the south, in the populous coastal lowlands south of Da Nang, 130 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were reported killed and 58 captured in the heaviest fighting in that region in 2 1/2 months. Allied casualties in eight actions in the area were seven Americans and three South Vietnamese killed and 26 Americans and 13 South Vietnamese wounded.

Another battle, on the edge of the U Minh forest in the Mekong Delta, brought total enemy casualties reported in the past 24 hours to 251 killed and 38 captured.

The allied commands in their weekly casualty summaries reported that the number of Americans killed in action last week totaled 97, a slight increase over the previous week, while South Vietnamese and enemy fatalities were the highest in two months. The summaries listed 475 government troops and 2,476 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese killed. Another 698 Americans were wounded.

"Enemy activity last week increased by 100 per cent compared to the previous week," said the communique from the Saigon government.

Since the enemy kicked off his winter-spring offensive on Nov. 4, his attacks have been concentrated in the southern part of

Panel Urges Higher Income Level For Poor Families

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential panel has recommended setting the minimum income for poor Americans at $2,400 a year for a family of four—$800 a year more than President Nixon has proposed.

The group, named by former President Lyndon B. Johnson, wound up a 22-month study by sending its report to the White House Wednesday.

The sweeping report, entitled "Poverty Amid Plenty" and prepared by the President's Commission on Income Maintenance Programs, recommends abolition of all other federally financed cash payment programs and gradually increasing the minimum income level to $3,500 a year, a total federal cost of $27 billion.

The initial income program would cost $7 billion a year and provide payments to about 36 million persons, commission Chairman Ben W. Heineman said. Heineman is president of Northwest Industries.

"The relatively low dollar cost of the program recommended should underscore the fact that these proposals are not designed to solve all the nation's social problems," the report said.

The commission said the initial $2,400 level "was not chosen because we feel that it is an adequate income, but because it is a practical program that can be implemented in the near future."

Even so, it added, "half of the income needs of the poor would be met by this program alone."

Another basic difference between proposals of the commission and the President deals with work requirements. Under the President's family assistance proposal an able-bodied head of household would be required to work or take job training. The commission recommended no such requirement.

"We do not believe that work disincentive effects of the proposed program would be serious. The level of income provided ed is low, and we do not believe that the poor are anxious to receive less income rather than more."

The 22-member commission, appointed by Johnson in January of 1968 unanimously supported the conclusions in the report, Heineman said.

Unlike the Nixon plan, the commission plan also would provide assistance to single persons.

The commission further recommended elimination of the federal food stamp program, consolidation of remaining federal welfare programs and an expanded program of birth control information and services.

Old Cabin Helps Pair To Survive

NEVADA CITY, Calif. (AP) — A can of soup and an abandoned gold miner's cabin helped a young pilot and his wife survive for five days after their light plane crashed in the cold emptiness of the Sierra mountain range.

Rescue, for Marvin N. Miller, 25, and his wife Anita, 23, came Wednesday. The painfully injured pilot, hobbling through snow in search of aid, stumbled across a man cutting Christmas trees.

The couple, who live in Vancouver, Wash., had taken off from Reno, Nev., Friday in their single engine plane for Fresno, Calif., where they planned to spend a vacation.

The plane was blown off course, buffeted by a downdraft, and crashed Friday afternoon 6,600 feet up a mountainside.

"I looked around," said Mrs. Miller, 23, "and there a few feet away was a cabin."

"When we got in the cabin there was a stove—a stove. I pulled paper from the wall. I had some matches. I pulled out the cupboard and shelves and burned every piece of wood I could find first night."

She said their only food was a can of soup which they happened to have in the plane.

Worker Is Killed Inside Cement Mixer

LOVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The Warren County sheriff's office today was investigating the death of Arnold Lee Jones, 42, Loveland, killed inside a cement mixer he was cleaning Wednesday when someone accidentally turned it on.

Loveland Life Squad men used torches to free the body which had been nearly severed.

The accident happened at the Michael Concrete Products Inc.

Expect DDT To Remain For Decade

WASHINGTON (AP) — Residue from DDT will still show up in the food Americans eat for at least a decade after the pesticide is banned, the government says.

Even if DDT were outlawed tomorrow, "it would take 10 years or longer" to cleanse the nation of effects already caused by the insect killer, Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch said Wednesday.

Finch made the statement in announcing the banning of DDT within two years for all but essential uses.

The recommendation for phasing-out DDT, one of the most common modern pesticides, was made in a report to HEW by a commission headed by Dr. Emil M. Mrak, former chancellor of the University of California at Davis.

DDT—dichloro-diphenyl-trichloro-ethane—was first put to extensive use 30 years ago by the Swiss to kill insects infesting potatoes. It's use quickly spread and DDT became popular during World War II to protect GI's against insect-borne diseases. After the war it became the most popular weapon against insects that infested crops.

While the DDT recommendation was a highlight of the 44-page report, the commission also laid out far-ranging guidelines for improved regulations of other pesticides.

The commission cautioned, however, against going overboard on pesticide residues now permitted in food, particularly to require them to be completely free of any traces.

4 Arrested In Bomb Tries

NEW YORK (AP) — FBI agents and New York City police have arrested three men and a woman after two of the men allegedly attempted to place time bombs aboard U.S. Army trucks in a midtown Manhattan Guard Armory.

The arrests Wednesday night came hours after a bomb exploded in the Criminal Courts building — the fourth major blast in the city in less than two days. One woman suffered minor injuries.

The FBI said the four arrested persons — two of them identified as being associated with radical publications — would be questioned about "additional bombings in the New York City area."

Early Tuesday bombs were set off in the RCA Building in Rockefeller Center, the General Motors Building on Fifth Avenue and the Chase Manhattan Bank Building in the downtown financial district.

No one was seriously hurt but those blasts caused heavy property damage. There have been a dozen other unsolved blasts in the city in recent months.

Arresting officers recovered four dynamite bombs allegedly set to go off at 4 a.m. today, the FBI said. Frederick M. Lussen, chief of detectives, said the bombs were "professionally made."

Demos Predict Benefit Hike Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic House leaders are showing new optimism increases in Social Security benefits can be approved by January but say it will mean leaving more extensive welfare reform for next year.

Contributing to the optimism is the feeling of House members they should not go home for Christmas without doing something for the pensioners whose fixed incomes are squeezed most in an inflationary period.

To speed up action on an increase, however, the Ways and Means Committee will have to put aside welfare reforms and proposed changes in Medicare and Medicaid it now is considering. Both are part of the Social Security Act.

Start Of Viet War Protest Weekend Gets Underway

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first of a long file of marchers steps off tonight in a two-day procession that war protest leaders hope will culminate in the most massive peace demonstration in the history of the republic.

While order and tranquility have been promised, the Army stands ready.

The stated goal of the protesters, converging on the capital from across the land, is to convince President Nixon the overwhelming majority of the American people want the war in Vietnam ended now.

But the President has said a "great, silent majority" is on his side and he and his spokesmen insist the foreign policy of the United States will not be altered by street parades.

With a last-minute display of amity between protest planners and the government, much of the tension that had built up in preparation for the three days of demonstrations seemed to dissipate.

But while optimism about nonviolence was being voiced on all sides on the eve of the protests, some 9,000 riot-trained soldiers were deployed around Washington, ready to move to protect the seat of government if the Justice Department—and Nixon—conclude things have gotten out of hand.

As the New Mobilization and Vietnam War Veterans committees feverishly worked out major details of the three-day campaign, the first of what protest leaders have predicted will be 250,000 demonstrators were trickling into the wet, chilly capital. A critical problem: billeting for tens of thousands as yet unaccommodated.

An outside chance of Washington's first snow hung over the beginning of the 40-hour "march against death," scheduled to get under way shortly after dark tonight.

Single-file, marshaled by their own kind, told to obey all traffic rules, they will trudge from Arlington Cemetery across Memorial Bridge, around the Lincoln Memorial, and past the White House. Each marcher will bear a placard lettered with the name of an American fighting man killed in Vietnam, or a Vietnamese village destroyed.

On passing the northeast gate of the executive mansion on Pennsylvania Avenue, the marcher will call off the name on his placard, proceed toward the Capitol grounds, and place the sign in one of 40 coffins.

It's a 4.2 mile march that

Sheriff's Stakeout Gets Results In Farm Thefts

Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff arrested a Highland County man Wednesday for allegedly stealing farm machinery in a five county area.

Sheriff Radcliff stated that after interrogation Richard L. McCarren, 42, of Route 2, Lynchburg admitted the thefts took place over a six month period.

The break in the case came when Deputy Charles Dolby, on routine patrol, spotted a tractor parked in Madison Township. Remembering a stolen tractor report, Dolby investigated and found this was a tractor stolen in Highland County.

Early Tuesday the sheriff received a report that a camper trailer was parked in the same location in Madison Township.

CHECKING out this report Sheriff Radcliff learned the trailer had been stolen in Columbus Monday night.

Deputy Don Thompson staked out the trailer and shortly before noon on Wednesday arrested McCarren when he came to pick up the trailer.

Sheriff Radcliff said McCarren admitted to stealing a tractor, camper trailer, corn picker, a large elevator, three gravity wagons, and various other pieces of farm equipment.

The value is in excess of $15,000 and the items are expected to be recovered on McCarren's farm in Highland County.

McCarren was released late Wednesday to Highland County Sheriff Walter Reffitt and will face charges of grand larceny.

Prospects

It was decided at the meeting to forego the only other launch opportunity this month—on Sunday—because the later start would move the moon-landing point 360 miles to the west.

Officials said they didn't feel Conrad and Bean should try to land on the alternate site, because photographs from Apollo 11—the moon-landing flight in July—showed landmarks that were unknown before. The detailed training has been for the prime site.

A prime objective of Apollo 12 is to develop pinpoint landing techniques essential for the next moon landing, Apollo 13, in the rocky highlands.

Such accuracy was not necessary on the July flight in the flat Sea of Tranquility—and Apollo 11 missed its target by four miles. The Apollo 12 target is in the Ocean of Storms, also relatively flat.

Jury Hears Contract Suit

A jury was seated Thursday morning in Common Pleas Court to hear a breach of contract suit brought by Protection Management Inc., Portsmouth, against George Haley, owner of Haley's Cafe, W. Main St.

The corporation is seeking $10,000 damages stemming from Haley's refusal to uphold an option contract. Haley claims the contract is not valid.

Members of the jury are: James B. Alcorn, Beulah Temple, William Cook, Mary Louise Baker, Dorothy Custer, Irvin Yeoman, Anna Ruth Lutz, Martha Weiler, Warren K. Salyers, William Haddock, Doris Russell and Chester Noecker, with alternate Ann Reid.

Rubin Jailed For Contempt

Had Walked Out
During Trial

CHICAGO (AP) — Jerry Rubin, one of the defendants in the Chicago riot conspiracy trial, has been jailed for walking out of court while the case was in progress.

Judge Julius J. Hoffman revoked the 30-year-old New Yorker's bail when his absence was noted Wednesday. Rubin surrendered to U.S. marshals later and was placed in the Cook County jail pending an appearance before the judge today.

One of Rubin's lawyers, William M. Kunstler, said he had left court early to catch a plane and meet a speaking engagement at Rutgers University in New Brunswick, N.J.

Rubin did not appear at Rutgers and said later he never left town. He added that he had not intended to show disrespect for the court.

Abbie Hoffman, another defendant in the trial, delivered the Rutgers speech. He had remained in court until Wednesday's session ended.

Rubin and six fellow defendants had been free on bail during the trial of charges that they conspired to incite riots during the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

An eighth defendant, Bobby G. Seale, chairman of the Black Panther party, has been ordered to stand trial separately.

Judge Hoffman made this decision after sentencing Seale to four years in prison for contempt of court.

The contempt sentence has been stayed pending disposition of a Connecticut attempt to extradite Seale on a murder charge. He is in jail in San Francisco.

Election Board Votes On Charge

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cuyahoga County Board of Elections has split 2-2 on a motion to censure Democratic member Dan W. Duffy for giving out election inspectors' credentials Nov. 4 without consulting Republican members of the board.

It will be up to Secretary of State Ted W. Brown to cast the tie-breaking vote to determine whether the censure is adopted.

Republican members Robert E. Hughes and Saul G. Stillman moved to censure Duffy Wednesday after the board heard testimony that six campaign workers for Democratic Mayor Carl B. Stokes were given inspectors' badges on Duffy's orders.

Wave Of Cold Air Sweeps Into Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A wave of wintry weather rolled across most of the eastern two-thirds of the nation today, scattering snow from Montana to Michigan and topping temperatures into the teens and 20s in the Rockies and Plains.

Snow, strong winds and falling temperatures brought warnings to stockmen and travelers in portions of Montana, Wyoming, Nebraska and Colorado.

Wind-blown snow reduced visibilities in northern mountain areas. Loveland Pass in Colorado was reported closed.

Flurries accompanied the fresh surge of arctic cold in the northern Plains and grew into snow squalls in parts of the upper Great Lakes region.

Two inches of snow coated Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., during the night. An inch fell at Alpena, in northeastern lower Michigan.

Occasional rain and drizzle persisted in New England. Showers also dampened a southern portion of the Midwest.

Mild and dry weather prevailed in the Far West. Warm conditions were confined to the Southwest and Florida.

Lollobrigida Will Wed

ROME (AP) — Actress Gina Lollobrigida announced today she is going to marry George S. Kaufman, a New York real estate man who said he has never seen one of her movies.

Miss Lollobrigida, 41, made the announcement at a news conference before she and Kaufman, 40, flew to New York from Rome.

The marriage, which Miss Lollobrigida said would take place "as soon as possible," will be the second for both of them.

It will automatically excommunicate the auburn-haired beauty from the Roman Catholic Church and theoretically leave her open to bigamy charges in Italy, which has no provision for divorce.

This is because in the eyes of the Church and of Italian authorities, she is still married to a Yugoslav-born doctor and publisher from whom she was separated in 1967 after 17 years of wedlock. Kaufman is divorced.

Fordham Hit By Campus Unrest

By JOSH MILLS
Associated Press Writer

Some Fordham University students wielded lead pipes to turn back unarmed campus guards, then ended a sit-in Wednesday night before New York City police arrived. Fourteen guards were injured, police said.

Elsewhere, protesters flew the Viet Cong flag at the Milwaukee campus of the University of Wisconsin and a group of Princeton University students tried unsuccessfully to blockade a building.

At Fordham, about 75 students seized administrative offices in mid afternoon to protest the school's Reserve Officer Training Corps program. About half left, but 36 vowed to stay all night.

Unarmed campus police tried to break through barricades of broken furniture and overturned file cabinets. Some of the students hit them with lead pipes and threw hot water.

After the guards retreated and city police were asked to help, the protesters broke two windows and scattered across the campus. Six were arrested.

The 14 injured guards were taken to several Bronx hospitals. Police said two of the injuries were serious.

A university spokesman estimated the damage at "thousands and thousands of dollars." He said students did not try to break into the files.

Fordham has 12,000 students, 5,000 of them undergraduates.

Last month, a referendum on the ROTC program found 53 percent of the students participating favored continuation of its current voluntary status.

At the Milwaukee campus of the University of Wisconsin, several dozen persons behind a Viet Cong flag tried to take over the ROTC office. Nine of them — one a professor — got inside before 15 ROTC cadets barricaded the door.

The nine were arrested by Milwaukee police. Seven of them, including an associate history professor, James D. Cockcroft, and three nonstudents, were charged with misconduct in a public place. The other two were charged with hitting and kicking a campus guard.

At Princeton University in New Jersey, about 100 undergraduates, some of them members of Students for a Democratic Society, failed in a blockade of the Institute for Defense Analyses. No violence was reported.

The protesters left the IDA, which does research for the Pentagon, and went to President Robert F. Goheen's office, where they heckled and cursed him when he said, "This university has a contract with IDA and we will honor it."

Princeton has about 5,000 students and there are about 14,000 students at the Milwaukee campus of the University of Wisconsin.

Mail GI Packages Now

Christmas shopping and all the other activities related to this most honored holiday have not yet begun for most Americans, but for the servicemen serving overseas all stateside activity must be moved ahead many weeks.

The time is now to remember them, if they are to participate in the holiday season. The Post Office reminds everyone that deadlines are fast approaching for mail to overseas destinations, if delivery is to be guaranteed by Dec. 25.

Parcels sent abroad by regular mail should be mailed now; those by parcel airlift by Nov. 29. Don't wait. That package could mean more to its recipient than anything else the folks back home could do for him.

Turnstile Justice

One of the complaints the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence has about the administration of justice in the United States is its leniency. This is a familiar complaint: from members of law enforcement agencies, and reinforcement of the argument by the commission headed by Dr. Milton Eisenhower is welcomed by them.

"Too often," said the commission, "lower criminal courts tend to be operated more like turnstiles than tribunals."

What is referred to is the frequency with which criminals are freed by judges, by parole officers, by the bail system, or by being placed on probation, only to strike again.

Turnstile justice is no justice at all. The time and expense of law agencies is consumed, and the public is no better protected than if the suspect had not been caught the first time.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans have now received notice that they are entering what could be the really painful period of the Nixon administration's attempt to put the economy back on a more stable, less inflated footing.

The situation is this: Evidence is accumulating that the rate of economic expansion is slowing, bringing with it more unemployment, less overtime and in some businesses the postponement of pay raises. Little evidence has accumulated, however, to indicate that prices are about to fall.

The squeeze is on. While the ability to buy will tend to increase slowly, the rate of price increases is likely to continue strong for months to come.

The wholesale price index for October surged to 114 from 113.6 a month earlier, indicating that retail prices, which generally reflect wholesale price changes, will be under strong pressure for several months.

This is bad news indeed, for consumer prices already have been rising very sharply. In September, increases were at an annual rate of 6 per cent, and little evidence has been reported since to indicate that the rate is any lower now.

If the wholesale price index is an indication, there will be no appreciable dip in the rate of inflation this year. In fact, it may be well into next year before real declines begin to show. In part, the consumer is responsible for his plight. Fortified with good wages, some money in the bank and an access to credit that was unknown in any other inflationary period, he continues to demand goods and put upward pressure on prices.

The consumer's personality has also changed markedly since World War II. Year by year he has tested his ability to handle credit. The absence of cash, he has learned, need not be a deterrent to fulfilling desires immediately.

As some bankers have pointed out, this has led to the present "now" generation, in which some funds that once would have gone into the bank to provide future security are, instead, spent immediately.

So strong has been the spending pressure by both consumers and business that three widely respected economic authorities suggested this week a stronger leadership role for government.

The fact that all three were members of former Democratic economic teams may leave them subject to criticism as partisans, but their opinions nevertheless are widely regarded in economic circles.

Laff-A-Day

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

SUBURBIA, observes A. C. Spector, is a region boasting each succeeding year more station wagons and fewer stations.

There's a professor of social psychology at the University of Michigan who specializes in the effects of heredity, environment, and habit.

He cites a fascinating experiment in which young lambs were separated from their mothers a few weeks after birth and divided into two groups. One was confined in a pen with a number of dogs, the other in a pen where a TV set blared out music continuously.

After several weeks the doors of the pens were opened and the young lambs were free to return to their mothers. Not one of them budged.

The lambs in group one obviously preferred to stay with their canine friends; those in the second group ignored their mothers and nestled happily next to the TV set.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I was delighted when one of my readers asked me to describe a typical day in the life of a doctor. She said, "there must be thousands of people who know their doctor intimately and yet have no idea how he copes with professional and personal problems and his obligations as a husband and father."

I cannot describe another doctor's reaction to a day in practice but I can review mine. In order to be objective, the day I chose was the one on which I received the letter. That seems fair enough.

I was awakened at the reasonable hour of 7:15 and made a hasty scan of the New York Times. This allowed me enough time to get to the operating room for my first operation at 8:15 for the removal of a tumor of the larynx. On the way to the hospital there was a recurring inner ache because 184 Americans were killed during the last week of war. I could not share the newsmen's seemingly gratified feeling that 16,000 of the enemy were killed as compared to our losses.

I wondered whether the mother and father of one of our boys who was killed shared the enthusiasm about these differential statistics.

My surgery was completed by 12:00 noon and then came the routine office visits of patients with small and major problems all having the universal attitudes of anxiety and fear.

Fear, as I have said before, is far more destructive than the illnesses which brings patients to our offices. Four of my patients expressed their anxiety about germ warfare which now seems to have temporarily displaced the fear of nuclear destruction.

Part of the afternoon was spent in a teaching program to resident surgeons in one of my hospitals. A cup of tea to compensate for the fact that I did not have time for lunch was followed by answering the telephone calls that had accumulated during the day. Now a stretch of two hours allowed me to write my newspaper columns and prepare me for an evening at home. Of course, I delayed dinner and received the usual reminder that the roast beef was ruined by my lateness.

Part of the evening was spent reading "The Courage To Be" by Paul Tillich and listening to some music with my family. A short nap was interrupted by an emergency which brought me to the hospital to repair a fracture of the jaw caused by an automobile accident.

I returned home at 2:15 a.m., exhilarated by the day of accomplishment, yet fatigued by the many hours of activity.

Let me assure my readers that this is not in the nature of a complaint, for the joys in the practice of medicine are limitless. I am certain that many of my colleagues agree that if they had ten reincarnate lives they would want to be doctors again.

I turned the television on, hoping for a bit of news that I might have missed and suddenly found I was totally sorry for having done so. A picture had just ended on the screen came a "one minute spot." The time now was exactly 3:15 a.m. At this time a 60-second film was devoted to teaching 12-year-olds why not to get involved with drugs and heroin injections. This bit of absurdity finished my day with an awareness of how ridiculously T.V. stations fulfill F.C.C. regulations for educational time on the air.

GOOD NIGHT . . .

Law, Order Trend Holds

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Richard Nixon got some magnificent free time on the air for his Vietnam speech, and it was just the day before the elections, yet. Perish the thought that there could have been any political motive in scheduling the speech for the first Monday in November. After all, the President had good reason to go to the country on the overriding subject of the war before the November 14-15 peace marchers, descended on the national capital. But motives are one thing, and the practical effect of a great speech on people who are about to vote is another. The fact is that Nixon's candidates scored heavily in the New Jersey and the Virginia elections within twenty-four hours of the President's talk on Vietnam. Ironically, no liberal rose to complain.

The New Jersey gubernatorial vote, which went overwhelmingly for six-term Congressman William T. Cahill in his race against former Governor Robert B. Meyner, offers a most interesting field for speculation. Cahill, a strong law and order proponent who had once worked as a special agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Little Rock, Ark., and St. Louis, wasn't that far ahead of Meyner in the early pre-election polls. Just before the election he did move five points in front of Meyner, getting 4 per cent to his Democratic opponent's 39. But 17 per cent of the voters were still announcing themselves as undecided.

Query: Since Meyner had made an issue of Nixon's conduct of the war, how many of that 17 per cent moved to Cahill's side because of Nixon's Vietnam speech?

There were things about the election that would tend to make anyone's crystal ball murky. While Virginia and New Jersey were going Republican (with the conservative and law and order trends still running strong), the picture in New York State — which is just as much a part of the industrial Northeast as New Jersey — was somewhat different.

The Democrats made gains in normally Republican Westchester County. In upstate cities there wasn't much to encourage the Republicans; the law and order Republican-Conservative candidate in Buffalo, Mrs. Alfreda Slominski, could not parlay her often expressed concern for the "forgotten middle class" to a victory over the popular Democratic Mayor Frank Sedita. Syracuse went Democratic, which was unusual; Albany stayed Democratic, which is not exactly noteworthy. And Mayor John Lindsay, the super-liberal, put on a surprise finish in New York City to beat Democrat Mario Procaccino, and Republican-Conservative John Marchi.

Despite the surface showing in New York State, however, the law and order issue obviously retains its pull among a bewildered populace. When a white sheriff, no less, can win in Detroit against a sufficiently popular Negro, one must say that the trend in municipal elections that began with Mayor Vorty's upset victory in Los Angeles and continued with the Stenwig win in Minneapolis is not yet slackening off. In Cleveland, Negro Mayor Carl Stokes eked out a second victory, but Stokes has had a rather good record of obtaining racial harmony, and went into the election with the backing of many white businessmen. Cleveland resists easy placing on the trend line.

In Washington, the contrast between the New York City and the Virginia elections provoked speculation about possible party switches, the feeling being that John Lindsay might become a Democrat at about the same time that Senator Harry Byrd decided his future must reside in becoming a Republican. There were even predictions that the Democrats might go to bat nationally in 1972 with a Lindsay-Muskie ticket, with all the Kennedys in Lindsay's corner. What is lost sight of here is that Lindsay, who did marvelously well in Manhattan and even squeezed out a win in Queens County by stressing law and order on his own, lost to the other candidates in Brooklyn, the Bronx, and Richmond. His victory margin in the city as a whole came from a coalition of the very rich and the very poor could possibly win classes tended to go for his opponents, making him a minority victor. Nationally, no coalition of the very rich and the very poor could possibly win against a good middle class candidate (i.e., Richard Nixon).

On balance, then, the analysis set forth by Kevin Phillips in his firmly documented treatise on "The Emerging Republican Majority" still holds. The country, despite the noise of demonstrators, shows no present disposition to go wildly to the left.

Dear Editor:

What in the world is wrong with the people of Pickaway County? I was deeply disappointed when I heard that the school bond issue and the operating levy had both failed for the Brooks - Yates School for the Mentally Retarded.

It was hard to believe that people could deny these kids a decent school to attend. I'm ashamed of myself because to tell the truth, I didn't even go out and vote, so I too helped this levy to fail. When I get another chance, believe me, I'll be sure to vote yes.

If the people would go out and visit this school as I have, they would be shocked at the condition of it. I'm very glad that my children have a decent school to go to instead of one in this shape. The children are mentally retarded yes, but they are also human beings and need a chance too. They are sweet, wonderful kids and they need all the love, help and understanding they can get.

Why not take one day and go out and visit the school, meet the children — see for yourself. You'll be most welcome by the teachers, Donald Hough, the superintendent and especially by the children.

PAT ADAMS

Dear Editor:

Along with the majority of the people of Circleville, I displayed the American Flag on Veteran's Day. My reasons for doing so were the same as have always prompted the American people to display Old Glory on such occasions.

Not only did I make my show of patriotism in opposition to those who oppose the establishment by their moralism, etc., but I also included those within the establishment who are greedily eating the foundation from under the country they pretend to love.

Who has contributed more to disillusionment, distrust and all the other forces that are destroying this nation, than many of those who make up our silent and supposedly responsible majority?

Since some of the capers of our VIPs, many of them by representatives to congress and state governments, should be fresh in most everyone's minds, it requires no specific examples as proof.

The pollution of our air and water with filth can be charged to those of the establishment and the so-called responsible and silent majority.

The obnoxious odors emanating from all the hippies and yuppies combined are nothing compared to that belched from the vents and smokestacks of just one of our large industries. The sight of long hair and beards is no more revolting than the ugliness of our polluted streams and lakes.

If communism is ever successful in taking over this country, historians will seek out the causes that led to our downfall. Causes will take precedence over effects, as such is the logical approach. It will be found that the silent remained silent too long on speaking out against the evils within the establishment of which they were a part. Such will be documented as a prime cause. The forces that finally brought about our downfall will be designated as effect.

The bear, a short-sighted animal, when wounded by a hunter will claw at his wound until dead. The cause, the man in the distance with the gun — he never sees.

And so it is with the silent majority and those of the establishment.

There are many in our society who make a mockery of American patriotism. The following from Bartlett's Familiar Quotations is an undeniable truth — "Patriotism is the last refuge of a scoundrel."

According To Boyle

By STEVE MOORE (For Hal Boyle)

BROWNING, Mont. (AP) — Bob Scriver, using skill and 2,000 pounds of bronze, has tried to mould the likeness of a "real honest to God cowboy."

Some say he was successful. The likeness is that of the late Bill Linderman, a Montana wrangler who was one of rodeo's most renowned riders. "He was one of the old breed . . . not one of the Honda-types you have today," says Scriver, a 55-year-old goateed artist.

"He typifies all that's good about the American cowboy and the Old West—the West of the Indian, the longhorn herds."

Scriver was commissioned by the Rodeo Cowboys Association in Denver to depict Linderman as he was, a hard-riding, blunt spoken person.

"The statue is Bill Linderman alright, but it's also the likeness of a unique man," said Scriver, who lives in the small north-central Montana community of Browning.

Also a taxidermist, musician and school teacher, Scriver spent 2 1/2 years creating the statue at his home on the Blackfoot Indian Reservation.

It was hauled away in a moving van in mid-October, en route for the Cowboy Hall of Fame in Oklahoma City—the first sculpture so honored.

"It's a damn good job, and I hope you don't mind my saying so," said Scriver after the movers left with the statue, insured for $40,000.

Linderman won the love and admiration of rodeo riders in a 25-year career that was ended by an airplane crash in November 1965, at Salt Lake City.

"That was Bill Linderman—the guy I cast in bronze," said Scriver.

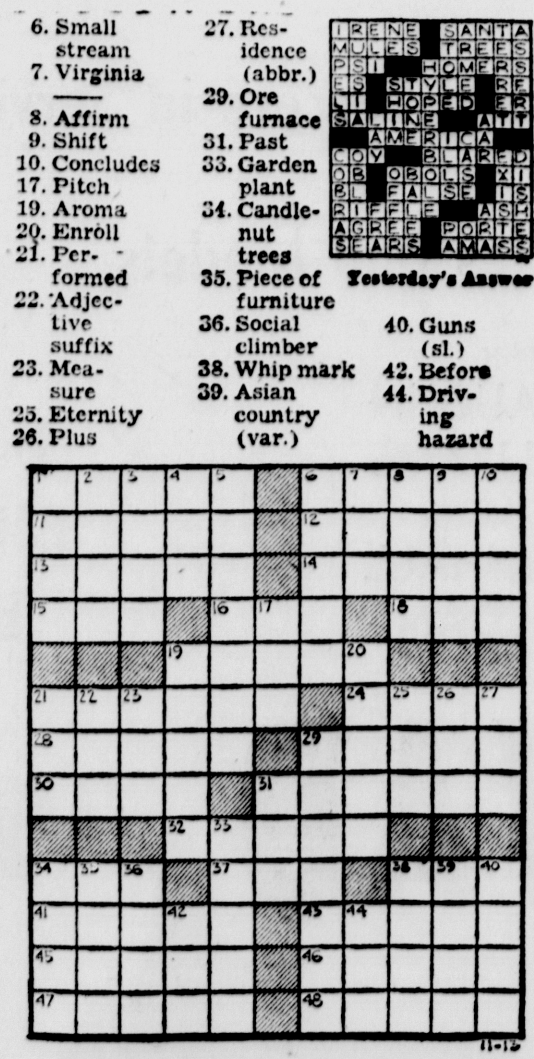

Born in 1920 near the south-central Montana ranching community of Belfry, Linderman earned $443,000 on the rodeo circuit and won more titles in more events than any other rider.

Scriver's bronze stands 7 feet 9. Nearly 5,000 pounds of metal went into its casting. Scriver said he and from 10-15 skilled and semiskilled men worked on it at times. It has seven major sections and eight smaller ones.

The Linderman statue depicts the cowboy holding his saddle with his chaps and reins over his shoulder.

Reporter Hits 'Cozy World' Of Military-Industrial Units

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The military-industrial complex was described here Tuesday night as a "cozy world" of high-ranking Pentagon officers and a small number of top contractors with mutual self-interests.

Bernard Nossiter, economic reporter for The Washington Post, said most of the biggest recipients of defense contracts depend almost entirely on Pentagon business to survive.

In addition, Nossiter told the U.S. League of Women Voters' conference on military spending and national security, these firms have become havens to which high-ranking Pentagon officers aspire when they retire.

The Pentagon last fiscal year awarded $38.8 billion in contracts, Nossiter said, and the 10 biggest recipients received $9.8 billion, or 25 per cent of the total.

And most of these firms, he said, depend on the federal government for about 80 per cent of their sales.

The 10 biggest contractors employed 1,065 high-ranking officers, colonels or higher, at last count, averaging more than 100 each, Nossiter said.

As a result, he said, "we have left the market world and entered a feudal arrangement. These are not contractors performing under contract, they are royal licensees with status grants."

Until recently all of this has gone largely unchallenged, Nossiter said.

But now, he said, Congress has taken a new mood and a critical look at defense spending, partly because Vietnam and other "misadventures" have raised questions about military infallibility.

However, Nossiter said it is impossible to tell yet whether Congress or the White House will be able to regain control of the biggest portion of the budget.

"My own guess is that the best chance of regaining control lies in the Congress and the absence or presence of pressure from the electorate," Nossiter said.

"If it becomes the best politics to raise a quizzical eye, even the ponderous executive bureaucracy will respond."

More than 150 community leaders from the midwest are here for the conference, which concluded today.

Greene County Solves Old Jail Problem

By BOB BURNS
The Xenia Daily Gazette
Written For The Associated Press

XENIA, Ohio (AP)—It cost Greene County and its tax payers more than $1 million to solve a decades-old jail problem.

The solution is a new jail. It is a three-story maximum security facility built to hold 128 prisoners, including separate facilities for women and juveniles.

The highest number of persons ever jailed here at one time was 100 during a student demonstration at Antioch College.

Impetus for the new jail came from citizens, aroused by what they saw at the old jail, who taxed themselves for nearly $600,000. When inflation began eating away the tax money, county commissioners borrowed $400,000 to get the new jail built.

Over the years, Greene County experienced many efforts to build a new jail. Despite critical reports from investigating grand juries, voters rejected all bond issues.

That was before the Greene County Council for Community Services spearheaded a new jail drive in 1965. It formed a New Jail Committee, made up of clergymen, educators, industrialists, business and civic leaders within the county.

Their efforts culminated when County Commissioners James A. Ford Sr., F. E. Hill and Ray Durnbaugh put a one-mill tax levy on the ballot in May, 1966. It had a two-year life and raised nearly $600,000 for the jail.

During the campaign for the mill levy citizens were offered inspection tours of the old jail. More than 2,000 persons toured the old place, saw the overcrowded and unsanitary conditions.

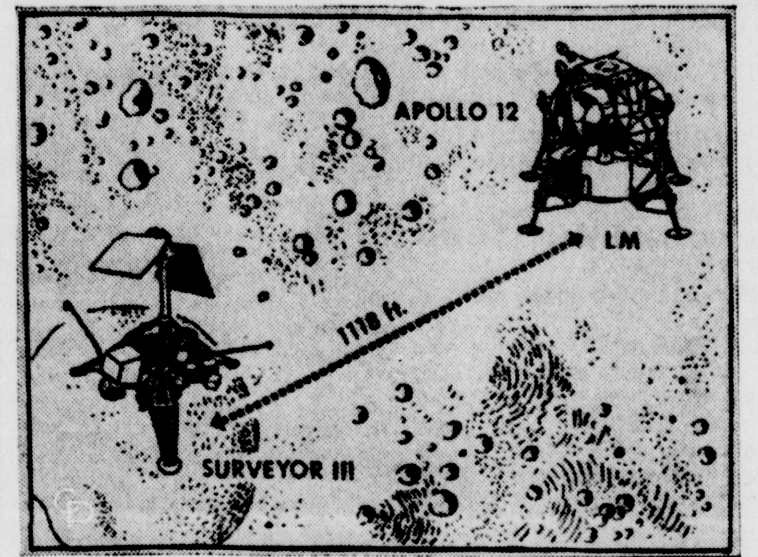

The levy passed comfortably but first construction bids were too high. Architects revised plans for the jail but new bids, opened six months after the first ones, were still too high.

Despite the money problem, commissioners voted April 3, 1968 to proceed with construction.

Five banks took county notes for $400,000 to cover the gap between tax income and jail costs. The move-in date came October 16 when Sheriff Russell A.

Bradley and his deputies transferred 50 prisoners from a temporary facility to the new jail. This is Greene County's sixth jail. The first one was a log house converted about 1800 for the stated purpose of "keeping Indians out and malefactors in."

The remodeling cost $9.60.

Council Of Church Women Plans Clothing Program

The Circleville Council of Church Women met Monday evening in the basement of St. Joseph's Catholic Church. Mrs. Joseph Carle, president, conducted the meeting which was opened with devotions by Mrs. Russell Archer.

During the business meeting, the new method of managing the Clothing Center was discussed and approved. The next sorting day will be Nov. 25 at 1 p.m. with Community United Methodist church women and Trinity Lutheran church women in charge. Distribution will be the following day, also at 1 p.m. The last general distribution of the year will be Dec. 31, with both sorting and distribution in charge of the Lutheran and Presbyterian women. Mrs. Lorentz reported that clothing had been supplied for some of the children in the new Day Care Center as well as some articles for persons with special needs. Children's clothing is badly needed, especially girls' coats and boys' pants and jackets. Items may be taken to the Center on sorting days or call Mrs. Lorentz at 474-9064 to make other arrangements.

MARION, Ohio (AP) — The PTA had a hot topic to discuss following a meeting here Tuesday night.

Fire broke out in a second-story classroom at Silver Street Elementary School while the PTA was meeting elsewhere in the building, which was evacuated.

Fire Chief Kenneth Wakely, attributed the fire, which caused an estimated 25,000 damage, to arson. Three youths were seen running from the building after the fire broke out, the chief said.

The school, however, was open as usual today.

'A Mosaic Of Many People' Presented To Monday Club

The paper prepared and presented by Miss Mary K. May for the Monday Club meeting on Nov. 10 was titled "A Mosaic Of Many Peoples." It is the second in a series of three studies concerning the cultures, peoples and politics of the countries of Indo-China.

Miss May's interest was centered on Cambodia, the land of the ancient Khmers who ruled the entire southwest Asian peninsula 800 years ago. Present day Cambodia is about the size of the state of Washington, with a population of 6½ million Chinese, Vietnamese and Khmers or Cambodians.

Early Cambodians were fishermen, farmers and builders. Miss May said "The Khmers left the world no great systems of administration, education or ethics like those of China; no literature, religions or systems of philosophy like those of India, but they did leave their Oriental architecture, decoration and feats of hydraulic engineering; their irrigation systems which produced three crops of rice each year were even more notable than the carved temples they left behind."

A detailed description of the Hindu mortuary temple of Angkor Wat was used as the prime example of Cambodian architectural beauty and perfection. Whole epics of Hindu religion are depicted in the panels that cover the walls of the long corridors. The Khmers fled into southern Cambodia when their temples were sacked by the Siamese in 1430.

Today in Cambodian villages life is a succession of ceremonies surrounding such important events as cutting the hair to destroy the hiding places for evil spirits and the funeral celebrations which occur two years after death that include feasting, dancing and fireworks.

Weddings are celebrated in the month of Phalkun. Processions, dining and dancing, launch the couples whose wrists have been bound together with a piece of white cotton string by the priests.

The Chinese New Year, Tet, occurs in January and the Cambodian celebration comes in April. The Chinese and the Cambodians observe the sharpest respect for each other and their customs. Money for the poor is obtained by "Raising The Dragon," in February comes the Buddhists "All Saints' Day," in October, the Chinese celebrate a Festival of Ancestors, something like our own Halloween.

"The Plowing of the Furrows," occurs in May but the climax of the year's holidays is the "Water Festival" in November which honors the river gods and lasts three days and three nights. The cycle of the year moves from one holiday to the next. All of them are reflections of the cultural value of the people.

Miss May played a record, "Cambodian Flute" by an American folk group and distributed pictures of Angkor Wat, temple scenes, Cambodian ballet and many pictures of the people. In closing she said that the ancient land of the Khmers with its proud cultural heritage, its love of beauty, expressed in music, dance and other arts, its strong allegiance to the Buddhist faith, its determination to educate its people for the world as it is today and its resolve to maintain political neutrality in the power struggle of east and west, is a land of contrasts, a land of challenge.

This is Cambodia, a nation slowly emerging from the cocoon of its ancient ways, not quite sure of the shape and colors of its unfolding wings.

Mrs. William Cox, president, presided over the business meeting. Mrs. E. M. Hundley was welcomed as an active member of the club. A sale of articles made by the Ohio Blind was held following the meeting.

RIOT BEGETS RIOT—Pvt. Jeffrey Russell, 20, Pensacola, Fla., is taken from the military courtroom at Ft. Dix, N.J., after being sentenced to three years for arson and riot in a stockade revolt. Whereupon MPs had to squelch rioting civilian supporters of Russell—two were taken into custody and 30 were hustled off the post.

'Professional' Thugs Get $1.37 Million From Guards

NEW YORK (AP) — "It was a most professional job," said the police official heading the investigation of the $1.37 million Wells Fargo armored car hold-up by three gunmen—the second largest cash robbery in U.S. history. "They were very cool."

Wednesday's daring daylight theft of Aqueduct Race Track receipts was nearly foiled by an unidentified housewife who became suspicious when she peered out her window and saw three men not in uniform transferring money bags to a car.

Her call to police brought patrol cars to the scene minutes after the bandit trio had roared off with the stolen money, leaving the three Wells Fargo guards handcuffed inside their truck.

The cash haul surpassed the $1,219,218 taken in the 1950 Brinks robbery in Boston and in U.S. history is exceeded only by the theft of $1,551,277 from a U.S. mail truck in Plymouth, Mass., on Aug. 12, 1962.

Robbers got $7 million in cash in a train robbery in Britain in August 1963.

Frank Basil, president of the New York Racing Association, said the loss was insured by Aqueduct and Wells Fargo.

The day for the armored truck crew began routinely when they left the track in Queens at 11:33 a.m. and began the drive to the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. at 23 Wall St. in Lower Manhattan.

They were carrying approximately $1.4 million representing receipts from Monday and Tuesday. The Monday receipts had not been deposited because banks were closed Tuesday for Veterans Day.

Locked in the back riding shotgun was Barry Kateridge, 25. The driver, James Kerrigan, 50, and crew chief, Thomas Raftery, 35, were up front. Each carried a holstered sidearm.

They drove to Pine and Fulton streets in Brooklyn where they stopped so Raftery could eat. His partners remained in the locked truck.

When Raftery returned he was followed by three armed men in their 30's. As Kateridge opened the door, the guards said, the trio jumped him and Kerrigan went for his gun.

"If you want to live to enjoy your pension, drop that thing now," the robbers warned. With guns at Raftery's back and head they added, "Don't make a move or we'll kill him."

They disarmed the guards, handcuffed them in the rear and placed canvas bags over their heads. Then one of the robbers drove the truck two blocks to a quiet residential side street where a 1968 Chevrolet was waiting.

Family Still

(Continued from Page 1) matched FBI records of John A. Warren in the Washington files. They said conflicting physical features can be explained because of conditions in Vietnam. "It's pretty hard to tell that to a mother who raised a boy for 25 years," Kerns said.

And Kerns, who knew Warren personally, said he is inclined to concur with the family's belief that the body is not that of their son.

"We cannot help but wonder if the Washington records are the right ones for this John A. Warren," Kerns said.

"We have checked and found that there are a few other John Warrens in Vietnam and at least one other John A. Warren."

Kerns said Army authorities are rechecking their records, "and we are going to try to doublecheck on the fingerprints to see if they coincide with ones we took from the body."

Sgt. Warren was due to come home from Vietnam Nov. 19. His father said he received a letter from him about two weeks ago and said another might arrive any day. Mail leaves the area where his son was based only once every two weeks, he said.

Ohioans To Join War Protests

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio moved toward participation in the weekend Vietnam Moratorium demonstrations Thursday with thousands scheduled to participate, most of them students and most of them headed for Washington. Buses to carry them to the nation's capital for the Friday and Saturday events were at a premium.

In Athens, where more than 700 Ohio University students were planning to make the trip, the scarcity of transportation was pointed up. Organizers of the trip said buses have been obtained to carry 400 of the demonstrators, but none could be found in a three-state area to provide transportation for an additional 300 to 400 wanting to make the trip.

The same problem existed in Columbus and elsewhere for those wanting additional buses. All bus companies checked said none were available.

The Ohio University area Moratorium program begins Thursday afternoon in Athens at a rally where Dr. Clayton Roberts, Ohio State University professor, will speak and tell the students why he is participating in the Moratorium program.

About 200 students of Denison University at Granville will participate in a Thursday evening candlelight "walk for peace" in the Newark area before about 150 students board buses for Washington.

At Heidelberg College, students planned to mark the Moratorium Thursday and Friday by distributing anti-war leaflets throughout Tiffin, and by sending a large delegation from the college to Washington.

In Cleveland, 23 buses full of anti-war protesters will head for Washington Thursday. Organizers there were also having trouble finding transportation for many of the 2,000 persons they expect to make the trip. In Columbus, both those in favor and those opposed to the Nixon Administration's policy in Vietnam have announced plans for the weekend.

The Ohio State University chapter of the Young Americans for Freedom will circulate a "Tell it to Hanoi" petition to be sent to the North Vietnam delegation in Paris. The petitions demand that North Vietnam renounce military victory in the South and allow the South Vietnamese to determine their own government.

The Columbus Moratorium

Committee is planning to send a large delegation to the weekend march in Washington. Committee Chairman Stephen Stollmack said at least 1,000 persons from Columbus expect to make the trip on chartered buses.

Columbus activities also include a faculty vigil Thursday afternoon on the Ohio State campus and a candlelight Thursday evening. The OSU Student Mobilization Committee has called for a student strike Friday and a "speak out forum" on the campus.

Last week Ohio Adjt. Gen. Sylvester Del Corso sent letters to members of the Ohio National Guard units asking for support of the administration's war policy. He asked the men to sign the letters and return them to the president. His action has been protested by the Ohio American Civil Liberties Union.

A "Support the President" rally has been planned for Thursday afternoon by students at Clear Fork High School at Belleville in Richland County. There will be a flag-raising ceremony and a pledge of allegiance to the flag by students supporting the President's Vietnam policy.

Fire Department Answers Motel Fire

City firemen received a call at 1:14 p.m. Wednesday to the Quality Courts Motel on Route 23.

Linens in a storage room at the motel had ignited by a nearby electric heater. Damage to the building was estimated at $300 and $100 to contents.

By JEANNE BACH

Victoriana will reign supreme Friday and Saturday evening at Circleville High School for the Junior Class production of "Angel Street."

Antimacassars, red plush, rose backs, bustles and sweeping skirts transform the whole atmosphere into quite a period piece. At last sideburns, mustachios and beards can be as magnificent and varied as the wearer desires — for that was their day.

This play was produced several years ago as the movie entitled, "Gas Light."

It is a very exciting and suspenseful drama, proving that evil men were just as evil in that day and could contrive some pretty good schemes to accomplish their sinister plans.

DEBBIE Spangler plays the female lead, Mrs. Manningham. Belittled and bedeviled, she is nearly lead over the brink of sanity. Debbie does a fine job with an exceptionally long and demanding part.

Dean Smallwood, as Mr. Manningham, is outstanding. He is the villain personified as he creates the feeling of evil by his very presence.

Nancy is played by Lissa Rihl. She is excellent in her portrayal and puts plenty of "pow" in her delivery.

Bill McGowan as Rough, comes to the rescue in fine style as a law officer. His trail to the villains' capture has been long and tedious.

Sue Bennett plays Elizabeth, the maid. She is convincing and has good stage presence.

Dennis Sowers and Jerry Easter are cast as officers.

BOTH cast and committee have worked long hours to present something just a little different. The lead parts for this play are long and demanding.

All of the flats (background) had to be built from scratch because there weren't any for the new larger stage. Extensive searches were made for period furniture and costumes.

Under the direction of Will Dunkle, the pieces are finally fitting together and will come to life as the finished production

Friday and Saturday evenings.

Even the intermission will have an added twist. Mrs. Lee Berry and her committee are planning an added surprise for the play goers.

To finance this play, Junior class members have manned a booth at all home football games, held bake sales and car washes. The box office receipts will then be used to pay for the Junior-Senior Prom.

Student directors are Sarah Knox and Carla Leigh, promoter, Benny Luna; lights and sound, Carl Neuding, head, Tod Conrad, Rod Kasler, Charles Whitfield and Mike Vaughn; ushers and ticket crew, Pat Courson, head, Debbie Preast, assistant, Brenda O'Dell and Patty Weethee.

Scenery and set, Mary Beth Rhoads, head, Betsy Bach, Donna Berry, Betty Brinlinger, Steve Davis, Kathy Dunkel, Diana Frazier, Lee Jolliffe, Mary Lucas, Cheri Peters, Greg Heiskell and Greg Roll; props, Sandy Ankrom, head, Dorinda Bellamy, Della Williams, Pat Davis, Kim Graham, Gail Koonce, Maureen McGuire, Emily Moon, Beverly Richardson, Gary Spangler, Jodi Steele, Beverly Vance and Max Wagner.

Make-up and costumes, Christy Dresbach, head, Sandy Ankrom, Debbie Bellamy, Kathy Forest, Diana Leist and Marilyn Penn; programs and ads, Linda Struckman, head, Debbie Dumm, Arlene Walters, Susan Huskey and Pam Wise.

Tickets may be purchased from cast or committee member or at the door.

Start Of . . .

(Continued from Page 1) could take each of the 45,000 marchers 2½ to 4 hours, depending on traffic. The "March Against Death" is supposed to last from dusk tonight to dawn Saturday. The lead marchers would not be celebrities, but next-of-kin.

Thus the scene would be set for Saturday's mass march and rally—which until Wednesday had been the most jagged bone of contention between protesters and government.

Across the nation, planes, trains, and buses have long been chartered, autos pooled, for this day in Washington. Estimates of the number expected have fluctuated wildly; although there's no way of knowing for sure, the most common guess has been 250,000.

The federal government, after weeks of negotiations, granted a parade permit for historic Pennsylvania Avenue—but not around the White House—to allow a sizeable percentage of the marchers to use that symbolic route Saturday morning.

The march will terminate at the vast, rolling grounds of the Washington Monument, in view of Nixon's bedroom. The grounds were the site of October 30's moratorium rally, when about 35,000 persons assembled, and Tuesday's pro-administration Veterans Day gathering of about 10,000.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC pre-empted its entire evening schedule Wednesday night to show four special programs, all on the happy and light side.

It was easy viewing, but toward the end of the 3½ hours, began to seem a little much, like a third helping of chocolate mousse.

The multispecial night started on an imaginative, merry note with a half-hour animated comedy about Bill Cosby's growing-up days and made a hero out of his friend Fat Albert.

The narration was pure, familiar Cosby, telling of his gang's football encounter with the formidable Green Street Terrors. It had great charm and warmth—and probably was appreciated more by grown-ups than by children.

Johnny Carson's excursion into early evening television followed and consisted of a series of comedy sketches which were pretty disappointing.

The hour opened with a sketch about two sets of parents with two college-student children announcing their plan to live together. It was broad and predictable. Another was a much too long satire on the Oscar awards, this one featuring "Oedipus Awards" for dirty movies. The idea was funny at first but bogged down.

Aiding Carson were George C. Scott, Maureen Stapleton and Marian Mercer, all skillful Broadway performers. They did their excellent best with the material. Carson, who wore a lot of fright wigs, mugged and played broadly, seemed out of his depth.

The three Supremes and the five Temptations, a fine pair of singing groups, worked together in the stylish and handsome hour of music that followed. The theme was Broadway, an excuse for a lot of great, familiar music, from "Mame" to "Rose Marie."

Diana Ross of the Supremes was the undisputed star of the show, leading the clowning, playing everything from a comedy superstarlet of the 1930s to an Indian princess in a mad spoof of the old Nelson Eddy-Jeanette McDonald films. The sets and the costumes were especially effective.

"Norman Rockwell's America," which wound up the night, was based on the warm and gentle humor of the artist and perhaps had more meaning for older viewers who grew up with the now departed Saturday Evening Post. Rockwell's covers were an institution.

The program was a novel retrospective of 50 years of Rockwell drawings, and slipped into sketches or songs based on the artist's theme. Jonathan Winters was effective in a sketch about a lonely traveling salesman. Michelle Lee and Dick Smothers handled the musical sequences and the show ended with a nice interview of Rockwell by Winters.

Reds Assure Bonn Over Atom Pact

BONN (AP) — The Soviet Union has assured West Germany the treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons will not hinder peaceful nuclear research in countries that sign it, Foreign Minister Walter Scheel said.

He said the Soviet assurance was contained in a written response to Bonn's request for a Soviet interpretation of a number of points in the document.

Speaking during a Bundestag, or Parliament, debate on the treaty, Scheel said the Soviet Union assured Bonn also that a U.N. resolution in which nuclear states pledged not to use force against nonnuclear states applies to West Germany as well. West Germany is not a member of the United Nations and has no nuclear weapons.

The debate was on the government's intention to sign the treaty and leave clarification of still outstanding points until ratification.

The opposition Christian Democratic party said West Germany should not sign the document until all outstanding points are cleared up.

Some Christian Democratic politicians have objected to the treaty, claiming it would cut off West Germany from the benefits of nuclear research and endanger security.

Ohio Supreme Court Nixes Convicted Slayer's Appeal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court refused to hear Wednesday an appeal by Robert Lowther, convicted of first-degree murder in the June 1958 slaying of a wealthy Cleveland recluse.

Lowther claimed his constitutional rights were jeopardized when the trial court permitted into evidence the manner in which he committed four other burglaries.

Lowther was convicted of beating to death Rudolph Kordis, 70, who lived in a rundown house filled with newspapers and magazines. Kordis' estate was valued at $82,326.

In other action, the Supreme Court reversed an appellate court decision and ruled in favor of landowners in a 1967 highway appropriation case.

The court said Hamilton County Common Pleas Court erred in failing to advise the jury that valuation of land depends on its general practical use and not what it could be worth for any particular use.

The lower court awarded Nellie R. and James B. O'Donnell Jr. of Cincinnati $46,200 for 11.74 acres they owned overlooking the Ohio River. The couple argued the land was worth more because its best use would be for high class residential development.

The Supreme Court decision means proceedings over the land must begin anew.

The court also permanently disbarred Columbus attorney William D. Edwards for violating a suspension from practice order it handed down in 1967. The court's Board of Commissioners on Grievances and Discipline said Edwards had continued to practice since the suspension.

The court refused to hear an appeal by Leroy Gad Taylor of Lima, sentenced to 1-20 years in the Ohio Penitentiary for forgery. Taylor said he was arrested Feb. 27, 1967, without a warrant.

Also denied a hearing was Zuker Zehenni, a former IBM operator for the city of Akron, who contended the city owed him $1,187 for non-compensated overtime between December 1962 and Aug. 20, 1966.

High Court Turns Down Jury Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Over the dissent of its two senior liberal justices, the Supreme Court declined Wednesday to give juveniles accused of man-sized crimes the right to a jury trial.

The 6-2 action, announced in an unsigned opinion, dismissed the appeal of a Nebraska boy whose case once seemed to be the likely vehicle for this civil liberties extension.

The court ducked, however, largely because his case began two months before the Supreme Court decision that established jury trials as a constitutional right even for adults.

Justices Hugo L. Black and William O. Douglas, who for more than 30 years have been in the forefront of extending Bill of Rights protections to state defendants, dissented sharply.

"There is, as I see it, no constitutionally sufficient reason to deprive the juvenile of this right," Douglas said.

Black, in a separate opinion, scored the court for giving certain constitutional rights only prospective application, thereby cutting off those citizens who were tried or accused of crime before the date of the high court decision.

Nationwide Corp. Issues Report On Operations

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Nationwide Corp., Columbus based insurance and financial holding company, issued a report Wednesday saying it had made good gains in operations and has taken additional steps toward diversification.

The corporation reported that during the period it acquired Gates, McDonald & Co., a large professional cost control service company in the fields of unemployment compensation and workmen's compensation for $6.5 million.

George H. Dunlap, chairman and president, also reported to shareholders that acquisition of Heritage Securities, Inc., the investment advisor and distributor for MIF Fund and MIF Growth Fund, was completed in October for $2.5 million.

Report Peking Readies War

HONG KONG (AP) — Travelers from the mainland report feverish war preparations, including large scale dispersals of city people and factories to rural areas, in Communist China's Fukien Province, across the narrow Formosa Strait from the Nationalist Chinese island.

The travelers said Fukien authorities told the people that "the dispersal is for implementing Mao's war strategy of transforming the countryside into the ocean of people's war to offset Russian missile attacks against Chinese cities."

In meetings recently, the Fukien officials announced that "the Russian revisionists have made a semi-official secret agreement with the Taiwan Kuomintang (Nationalist China) to jointly attack the mainland and restore Kuomintang rule on the mainland," the travelers said.

'Fish-In' Slated By Group To Block Off-Shore Drilling

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A citizens group says it will stage a "fish-in" to block erection of the first drilling platform off their shores since an oil well blew out in the Pacific and blackened their beaches last January.

The protest is being organized by a committee of 750 citizens under the banner of Get Oil Out (GOO).

"We'll have at least 30 to 40 boats and maybe a hundred or a couple hundred," said Marvin Stuart, director of the committee. "We'll have everything that can get out there and drop a fish hook."

Stuart said the boats would congregate on the spot where the Sun Oil Co. plans to set up an eight-legged, 200-foot high steel drilling platform called "Hillhouse" in the Santa Barbara Channel, where there already are 12 platforms.

"We'll impede their progress in towing the platform to the utmost," Stuart said. "They're going to have to drive us off the site to get the platform in."

Sun says it plans to tow the platform within the next few days to a spot one-half mile east of a similar platform operated by Union Oil Co., where the blow-out occurred Jan. 28.

Oil from the Union well blackened 800 square miles of ocean, spilled onto 40 miles of beach and killed hundreds of sea birds.

Members of GOO, joined by the city and county, won a court order Monday placing a temporary ban on new exploratory wells and platforms.

But the ban didn't affect "Hillhouse," approved by the Army Corps of Engineers before the court order was issued.

"Hillhouse" was built in Oakland and is on a barge there ready for towing to the channel.

Stuart conceded that the fish-in can cause only a temporary delay.

"I'm sure the Coast Guard can order our boats out," he said. "But the fact that we'll be there and they'll have to order us out one at a time will create enough disturbance at sea to get the message across that we simply don't want that platform out there."

Ohio Pollution Control Board Issues Orders

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Water Pollution Control Board Wednesday ordered Willoughby's Council members to either approve a plan for the construction of waste treatment facilities or appear before the board to explain the delay.

The board, noting that Willoughby is two years behind schedule, continued the city's case until Jan. 13.

The board indicated that it would probably impose a building freeze on Willoughby during its January meeting if the council continued to delay construction.

In other action, the board ordered Marion County to begin construction on sewers and a waste treatment facility in District 1, Area 4, by June 8.

It also ordered the City of Canton to begin construction of sanitary sewers and storm drains by that time.

The board gave the village of South Charleston until Feb. 10 to place under construction a sewage and water treatment plant there. It continued the building freeze in effect there.

It gave Erie County until Feb. 10 to begin construction of the Ruggles-Mitiwanga waste water treatment plant.

Medina County was also given until Feb. 10 to begin construction of sewage and waste water treatment facilities.

Pollution Board In Tough Stand

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Water Pollution Control Board rejected Wednesday a company's request for more planning time and adopted water standards for the Muskingum River Basin.

The board set Jan. 1, 1972, as the deadline for industries and political subdivisions which discharge wastes into waterways of the basin to comply with the standards.

In its action, the board continued its get-tough policy on pollution and ignored a contention by PPG Industries that it might have to close its Barberton plant if the standards were adopted.

The company said it was not "economically feasible" for it to eliminate the waste problem at the Solvay Soda Ash plant along the Tuscarawas River in Barberton.

Board member Barton Holl suggested that the company was trying to "blackmail" the board by threatening to put 2,300 people at the plant out of work.

After the board refused to delay the setting of standards for a month to give the company time to analyze federal data, Robert E. Widling, a company vice president, said the firm will request a variance from the standards.

He said afterward he was not certain whether the plant would have to be shut down if the variance is denied, adding: "We will review all options to prevent it."

In other action, the board requested the state health director issue a cease and desist order to Bechtel McLaughlin, Inc., Sandusky, for discharging an unacceptably high amount of cyanide.

Bechtel McLaughlin was ordered to show cause at the board's January meeting for why it is not properly operating treatment facilities.

Also asked to show cause in January will be the Mingo Junction and Steubenville plants of Wheeling Steel. The board said they do not have adequate facilities.

The board continued until January applications for renewals of permits for Akron and Franklin.

The board also: Ordered Willoughby's council to approve a plan for construction of waste treatment facilities or appear before the board to explain the delay.

Ordered Marion County to begin construction on sewers and waste treatment facilities in District 1, Area 4, by June 8. Ordered the city of Canton to begin construction of sanitary sewers and storm drains by June 8.

Gave the village of South Charleston until Feb. 10 to construct a sewage and water treatment plant there. It continued the building freeze in effect there.

Gave Erie County until Feb. 10 to begin construction of the Ruggles-Mitiwanga water treatment plant.

Senate In Showdown Debate On Haynsworth Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate settled into a showdown debate today to decide the months-long controversy over the nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. to the Supreme Court.

At stake are the votes of more than a score of uncommitted senators who could swing the balance on confirmation of President Nixon's nomination.

The debate is expected to extend into next week.

Filing of a Judiciary Committee majority report backing Haynsworth set the scene for today's opening of Senate floor arguments. The report said questions raised about the ethical standards of the South Carolina jurist have not been substantiated.

The committee majority also said the more fact that a controversy has arisen—even though unsubstantiated—is no reason in itself for refusing confirmation.

"Such a position is contrary both to traditional notions of fair play and to the lessons of history," the committee said. "To accede to such a view would be to place a nominee's fate... in the hands of his accusers."

It recalled that 43 years ago, when Louis D. Brandeis was nominated for the Supreme Court, a judiciary subcommittee minority issued a report saying a man selected for such an exalted post should be free from suspicion or reproach and "whether suspicion rests on him unjustly or not, his confirmation would be a mistake."

But the Judiciary Committee majority recommended confirmation of Brandeis and he was confirmed by the Senate.

"He (Brandeis) survived the charges made during the course of the debate on his confirmation and became an outstandingly able and respected Associate Justice of the Supreme Court," the committee said in its report urging confirmation.

Dissenting statements were filed by five of the committee's Democrats and by a Republican member, Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan. They gave various reasons for their opposition, including a contention that Haynsworth has shown insensitivity to judicial canons of ethics.

One of the dissenters, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said Haynsworth's decisions on the 4th U.S. Court of Appeals reflected "a hesitancy to eliminate discriminatory practices... a consistent insensitivity to the rights of individuals."

Haynsworth, 57, whose home is in Greenville, S.C., has been a member of the court for 12 years and chief judge since 1964.

Taxpayers Save Schools

FREMONT, Ohio (AP)—This city's drive to keep city schools open the rest of the year succeeded this week when taxpayers made more than $550,000 in early tax payments to the Sandusky County treasurer's office.

Schools were scheduled to be closed Friday until Jan. 3 for lack of money since funds from a 9.6-mill school operating levy approved last week by voters were not to be available until after Jan. 1.

Robert Wolfe, owner of radio station WPRO, suggested the early payment of taxes to keep the schools open, and county treasurer Virgil Swartzlander said Wednesday more than enough money was collected in two days.

At least $528,000 was needed. Swartzlander called the $550,000 "a conservative figure" and said he had a vaultful of tax payments not yet totaled. About $233,000 was paid Monday, mostly by private citizens. The office was closed Tuesday, and the drive was put over the top Wednesday with most of the money from corporations and utilities, Swartzlander said.

Mansfield Sees Short '70 Recess

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators running for re-election next year may find themselves a bit short on campaign time. Majority Leader Mike Mansfield anticipates only a brief recess for 1970 electioneering.

"This is a year-round operation now, and that will have to apply in election years as well as off-years," Mansfield said.

Mansfield said the Senate probably will be open for business until Dec. 20, then recess for a between-sessions break until sometime between Jan. 12 and Jan. 19. He said that schedule is tentative.

Next year, Mansfield said, the Senate will take an August recess and probably another break closer to election day. He said that campaign recess may be for two weeks.

Mansfield said Congress should forget its traditional effort to adjourn prior to the autumn campaigns and acknowledge membership in the House or Senate means full-time attendance in Washington, like any other government job.

Democrat Mansfield, who will be seeking another term in Montana in 1970, dismisses the suggestion that sessions requiring campaigning incumbents to stay close to Washington will give challengers an edge.

"Whatever advantage they have is equalized by our being back here tending to the people's business," he said.

Vinton County Schools Shut Doors Soon

MCARTHUR, Ohio (AP)—The decision of the Vinton County board of Education to close schools here Nov. 27 to Jan. 1 was reaffirmed by the board Tuesday night.

The action comes in the wake of the defeat of a five-mill operating levy Nov. 4.

A delegation of businessmen and others, mostly from McArthur, asked that the schools remain open, and Board Member William DePue of near Hamden made a motion that the board rescind its action.

The motion did not receive a second and no vote was taken on the issue. Another election on the levy is set for Dec. 9.

The board voted to borrow $50,000 to pay for operations until Nov. 27 and the expenses which will continue while the schools are closed.

The present plan approved by the board is for school to be held on alternating Saturdays after they reopen in January. This will require lengthening the school year only one additional week to get the required number of days.

McArthur itself had approved the levy, but it lost in the rest of the county.

BLOEMFONTEIN, South Africa (AP) — Modern styles moved to local church organization to appeal for a government censor board to control women's fashions. They also want education authorities to act against "scantily clad" teachers and give "positive" instruction on clothing to pupils.

Dear Abby: Make 'Points' With Your Wife Too!

DEAR ABBY: Rudy works for a large company, and as you know there is a pecking order in all companies. The chairman of the board is apple-polished by the vice presidents, the vice presidents are apple-polished by the department heads, the department heads are apple-polished by the buyers, and so on down the line.

Well, whenever Rudy's company has a party, they have an orchestra and dancing. Rudy is a very good dancer, but I never get to dance with him. He spends the entire evening dancing with his bosses' wives, so the bosses will be free to dance with all the cute young things. Rudy says I am not to complain because this is "legitimate apple-polishing," which is a part of his job.

Now I'm all for Rudy making points with his bosses, but do you think it's fair for him to leave me sitting all evening while he dances with the bosses' wives?

RUDY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Rudy doesn't need polished apples for all the applause he's giving you. NO man should dance with another woman unless his own wife is occupied. (A little "henpecking" could have a legitimate place in this pecking order.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 65-year-old woman, never married and just retired. I have taken care of an older ailing sister who died eight weeks ago.

I was so lonesome, I went to a store and bought myself a beautiful large doll. I set her in the chair and I sometimes talk to her.

I am worried. Is anything wrong with me? Why did I buy a doll at my age? Should I give it away or just let it sit there? Thank you.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: You bought a doll at your age because you wanted one. And there is nothing wrong with that. But you really should get out a little more, see people, and perhaps team up with a companion. Too much solitude can be depressing.

DEAR ABBY: In our office there is a girl who has been "single" ever since the death of her husband two years ago. The boss lost his wife about a year ago, and these two have been very chummy ever since. They've even taken out-of-town trips together just like married folks, and have recently announced (to the surprise of no one) that they are "engaged" to be married!

A large wedding is planned and I have heard that all of us in the office will be invited. How can I tactfully turn down this wedding invitation? I don't care to attend the wedding of people who have lived in sin for a whole year.

INDIGNANT

DEAR INDIGNANT: Simply decline. You are not expected to explain why. P.S. You could be wrong about this "sin"

Report Revco Not In Violation

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The top official of the Ohio State Board of Pharmacy has defended the actions of the board and of Revco D. S., Inc., during the three-day-old, statewide strike of about 100 Revco pharmacists.

Frank Kunkel, executive secretary of the board, said Wednesday that four board inspectors found no cases of unlicensed druggists dispensing drugs or that any closed Revco pharmacy departments were unguarded.

The striking Society of Professional Pharmacists had accused Revco of violations during the strike and also said the board was engaging in strike-breaking activities by granting out-of-state druggists temporary licenses pending final transfer.

Kunkel said that the board's procedure on issuing temporary licenses is the same as it has been for nine years. He said nine of 19 out-of-state druggists presently with temporary permits are Revco employees.

N.D. State Keeps Top Grid Rating As Season Ends

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
There's room at the top now in the nation's small college football poll for the simple reason North Dakota State is through for the season.
The Bison finished No. 1 its attention to the Camellia Bowl Dec. 13 in Sacramento, Calif.
Sports writers and sportscasters voting in the AP national panel awarded the Bisons 11 first place votes and 300 points Wednesday after the Fargo fanatics beat South Dakota State 20-13 for a 9-0 season record.
The Camellia Bowl will be the Bisons' third straight postseason game. They won twice in three Pecan Bowls and in 1964 won the Mineral Water Bowl game.

Montana, 9-0, again finished second in the poll with one first place vote and 279 points boosting its record to 9-0 by blanking Cal Poly SLO 14-0 and Delaware, 7-1, beat Lehigh 42-17 for 185 points and another third-place finish.
Akron, 8-1, moved from fifth to fourth with one first place vote and 165 points after crushing Youngstown 60-27 and New Mexico Highlands, 7-0-1, jumped from seventh to fifth with 158 points and one first-place vote after burying Southern Utah 69-0.
Alcorn A&M, 6-0-1, remained in sixth place with 151 points after beating Mississippi Valley 41-10. Louisiana Tech, 6-1, advanced from eighth to seventh with 128 points after nipping Southeast Louisiana 25-24.
Arkansas State, 5-1-1, dropped from fourth to eighth after tying Drake 21-21. Northern Arizona, 7-2, was a newcomer to the Top Ten, occupying ninth position after finishing 12th last week. ## Rockets Whip Pittsburgh Pipers In ABA

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Maybe the whole town wasn't talking about the Jones boy in Pittsburgh Wednesday night. But anyone who watched the Denver Rockets whip the Pipers 125-114 in an American Basketball Association game was.
Larry Jones fired in 43 points in sparking the Rockets to a come-from-behind victory, only their third triumph against 11 losses. Rookie Spencer Haywood of the Rockets put on a show, too, scoring 25 points and grabbing 26 rebounds.
In other ABA games, the Indiana Pacers downed the Carolina Cougars 130-111 as the Dallas Chaparrals topped the Washington Caps 122-104 and the Los Angeles Stars turned back the New York Nets 133-126.
Pittsburgh led Denver 85-81 after three quarters before the Rockets exploded for five points in the opening seconds of the final period and never relinquished the lead. It was the Pipers' first home loss this season.
John Brisker topped the Pipers with 36 points, followed by Charley Williams with 26.
Roger Brown's 30 points—28 in the first half—powered Indiana, the Eastern Division leader, over Carolina. Hot shooting by Bob Netolicky in the second half helped the Pacers open up a 23-point margin. Bob Verga's 25 points led the Cougars.
Dallas' firepower came from Glen Combs, with 30 points, Manny Leaks, with 26, and John Beasley, with 24.
The Chaps, who led 61-53 at halftime, and 88-80 after three quarters, had to hold off a late Washington rally, which reduced the Dallas lead to 108-104 before Dallas caught fire again.
Henry Logan's 19 points paced the Washington attack.
Larry Miller and Bob Warren provided the scoring impetus with 25 and 24 points, respectively, in Los Angeles' success over New York.
The victory was the Stars' fourth in a row and boosted their first-place margin over idle New Orleans in the Western Division to one fullgame.
Wayne Hightower's basket with 8:40 left in the third period put Los Angeles in front for good 67-55 after the lead had changed hands 25 times.
Bill Melchioni of the Nets topped all scorers with 28 points.

Joe Kapp's 'Visual' Still Talked About
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Any quarterback can call an audible at the line of scrimmage but it takes a Joe Kapp to come up with a visible.
Kapp had the Minnesota Vikings on the Cleveland one in the closing minutes of the first half of Sunday's 51-3 romp. The Browns dug in with an 11-man line, prepared for the plunge. The Vikings also were ready to grind it out on the ground.
As Kapp took the ball he spotted Gene Washington all alone in the end zone so he waved to Washington. It was too late to tell the rest of the club so they went through their regular blocking chores. Kapp wobbled a pass to Washington for a touchdown, his 17th of the year.

Phipps A Bogeyman For Bucks

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The muscle men of Ohio State's No. 1 ranked football team are being put to bed this week with horror stories.
The ogre is a monster wearing No. 15 on his jersey. His name is Mike Phipps. He quarterbacked the Purdue Boilermakers, who like to refer to themselves as "Spoilermakers."
"This man scares me," confessed Lou McCullough, defense coordinator of the Ohio State coaching staff. "In 21 years of coaching, I've never seen a better passer."
"If he's not the No. 1 pick of the pros, those guys have a hole in the head."
Phipps is spearhead of the Purdue team that will seek to snap the Buckeyes' 21-game winning streak and knock them off the No. 1 pedestal in college football's game of the year here Saturday.
The contest will be nationally televised by ABC, with a 1:25 p.m. EST kickoff.
Phipps and Ohio State's quarterback, Rex Kern, are leading candidates for the Heisman Trophy as the top individual college performer of the 1969 season.

"Kern is a fine quarterback—quicker than Phipps and better on the roll-out," said McCullough in his molasses Alabama drawl. "But Phipps is dynamite as a thrower."
"Last year I saw him throw a ball 75 yards. Against Stanford this year he completed the two-point winning conversion with a defender's finger in his eye. He can throw on one foot, balance and even almost falling on his face."
"He's strictly a pro-type passer. He fades back and even with tacklers clutching at him—zip—40 yards right on target. I tell you he's frightening. He will score. I only hope we can score more."
It's a vital game for both teams. Purdue needs a victory to remain in the running for the Rose Bowl. Ohio State is ineligible for the Rose Bowl, is seeking to become the first team since Oklahoma in 1955-56 to sweep two successive national championships.
Coach Woody Hayes acknowledged that the pressure was mounting.
"Certainly there is pressure—the more you win the more anxious they are to knock you off," said the Buckeyes' pudgy Captain Bligh. "We like it. We are conscious we are No. 1. With no Rose Bowl to go to, it's the only incentive we have."
Jim Otis, the team's 215-pound fullback, added: "We have a disease here at Ohio State—a winning disease. We don't want to lose it."

Despite Dire Predictions, Rose Bowl Is Not Dead Yet

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—"This is a brief report on the passing of the Rose Bowl...The Rose Bowl is dead, you know...it is now merely a minor feature for visitors who come to town to see the Rose parade in the morning...It is, believe me, being disregarded throughout the country."

So wrote a Los Angeles sports writer. The date was November 1946.
The premature burial of the nation's oldest postseason football game was not uncommon two decades ago. Such essays were predicated on the 1946 pact limiting contestants to members of the old Pacific Coast and Big Ten conferences. Critics blasted the closed-door contract.
Even a man who has been through it all, Lathrop K. Leishman, a former president of the Tournament of Roses, says the agreement was born in discontent and "over the years has not been constant serenity." He has been a member of the organization's football committee since 1938 and its chairman since 1945.
The current unrest by some authors is not new by any means, either—the gripe that under the Big Ten's no repeat policy, Ohio State, cannot return to Pasadena New Year's Day if the Buckeyes win the conference championship.
"We love Ohio State and Woody Hayes but," commented Leishman, his voice lowered almost to a whisper, "Purdue would ease a few such problems if it could win over Ohio State."

Regarding the "illness" of the Rose Bowl, Leishman had another statistic.
"Prior to the Big Ten pact, the Rose Bowl game actually sold out only five times. It has been a sellout each of the Big Ten years. The bowl seats more than 100,000.
"We put up 1,700 pairs of tickets for fans on a first-come write in application this year. We had over 40,000 applications and of course the fans don't

Hunting Season Opens

Game Population Reported Up In Pickaway County

Friday is the opening day of the upland game season throughout the state of Ohio.
Pheasant, rabbit and quail hunting in Pickaway County is among the best in the state, Tom Weldon, local game protector, reported today.
He is anticipating a heavy influx of hunters for the first two days of the season. The small game population is larger this year than it has been recently.
There are 4,000 acres of public hunting land at the Deer Creek Reservoir and an additional 5,000 acres of privately owned land participating in the state's hunting with permission program.
WELDON urged all local nimrods to wear a protective coloration of some sort, preferably fluorescent orange. He said that there were only two hunting accidents in Pickaway County last year.
He hopes local hunters can improve on that record.
Ohio hunters will have a "bonus pheasant season" this year. Cock pheasants may be taken through Dec. 13 on private property and through Jan. 31 on state public hunting areas. In addition, a special season will open again on private land Dec. 25 and extend through Jan. 3.
Rabbit season lasts through Jan. 31 throughout the state. Quail may be taken on private land where the landowner has signed a quail hunting agreement with the state through Jan. 3 and on public land through Jan. 31.

Hunting of all wild animals except deer and waterfowl is prohibited from 8 a.m. Dec. 1 through 5 p.m. Dec. 6 in deer zones one and three and from 8 a.m. Dec. 1 through 5 p.m. Dec. 5 in deer zone two. This does not include Pickaway County, which is in deer zone two.

Every person hunting must have a license except active servicemen on leave carrying the proper identification papers, landowners and their children or the tenant or manager of land on the farm where they reside.

Westfall quarterback Greg Bigam (left) was selected defensive safety on the All-Scioto Valley Conference football team and Dan Ankrom (right) of Logan Elm was picked as an end on the offensive team. Both boys are seniors and are four year players on their respective teams.

Fired-Up Royals Defeat Boston Celtics, 116-107

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It may be just as well that Bob Cousy hasn't been able to get reinstated as a player in the National Basketball Association. His Cincinnati Royals might lose to the Boston Celtics in that case.
Cousy, now coach of Cincinnati, went 2-0 against his old team when the fired-up Royals whipped the champion Celtics 116-107 Wednesday night.
The Royals were keyed up because Red Auerbach, general manager of the Celtics, has refused to release Cousy from the Celtics' retired player list without a deal with the Royals.
San Diego defeated the Detroit Pistons 132-119 in the other NBA game scheduled.

Celtics rallied in the last quarter on the shooting of John Havlicek and Don Chaney.
Don Nelson led the Celtics with 23 points followed by Havlicek at 22 and Chaney at 21. Fred Foster was second high for the Royals with 17.
Jim Barnett and Elvin Hayes, the Big E, combined for 29 points in the last quarter to pace San Diego over Detroit.
San Diego led by 89-87 starting the final period before Barnett cut loose with 17 points and Hayes 12.
Hayes was high scorer with 34 points while Barnett finished with 25. Terry Dischinger paced the Pistons with 29, three more than Dave Bing.

American Novelist James Baldwin Now Play Director

By RODNEY PRIDER
Associated Press Writer

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — American novelist James Baldwin has embarked on a new career—directing plays—but he's not sure whether Turkish audiences will accept his first production.

"It's an odd endeavor," he says of his attempt to direct actors in a language he does not speak. Few disagree, but even fewer in Istanbul doubt that he will make a success of his first production—John Herbert's "Fortune and Men's Eyes."

The choice of the play is almost as daring as Baldwin's decision to become a director in Turkey.

Turkey's theater is not as sophisticated as London's or New York's, and the play deals with the degrading impact of prison life on inmates. It includes scenes showing homosexual relationships. Baldwin is a bit uncertain how Turkish audiences will react when it opens next month.

"You can't guess what an audience will take," he admitted to an interviewer. But the actors he has chosen, members of Istanbul's most avant-garde theater group, say the play is sure to be a success.

Baldwin, author of "Another Country" and "The Fire Next Time," has long been interested in the theater and has written several plays, but this is his first try at directing.

He got the idea from Engin Cezzar, a Turkish friend who will star in the play.

Baldwin, 41, has many friends in Istanbul. The famed Negro writer started coming here in 1961 and now thinks of Istanbul as his home, even though he still visits New York occasionally.

"It's an anonymous city," he said in his apartment overlooking the Bosphorus, "and I needed time to think." But perhaps the crucial factor in his decision to live here is that he feels "safer in Istanbul than in New York... It's not really a white man's country."

Baldwin says he left the United States "because Negroes there have become a receptacle for everything that's wrong with the nation."

He likes Turks. "But then, I just like people," he added. "I like the world."

Work on the play takes up most of Baldwin's time. The translation from English to Turkish is not yet finished, but rehearsals have begun. The actors all speak some English or French, and in moments of crisis Baldwin—who doesn't yet speak Turkish himself—can turn to an interpreter.

"It's a challenge," he says.
